Radios: User Information

Only sign a radio out if asked to by one of the management team

Chippenham Folk Festival uses radios throughout the festival from set up through to take down. If you have been asked to use a radio, please make sure you understand how the radio works and follow procedures when using on them. You are responsible for your radio at all times. There is a £300 fee, charged to the festival, for loss or damages.

When you first receive a radio; please make sure it has been signed out to you on the sheet with Event Control. When you return it you must sign it back in. The radio is your responsibility once you have signed it out until you sign it back in.

ALL RADIOS MUST BE SIGNED BACK IN AT THE END OF EACH DAY. You will be told if you are an exception to this rule. Authorized Radio users will be required to provide their mobile number the first time they sign a radio out so that we can contact you should the radio not be returned.

Radio Users MUST NOT swap radios with any other radio user, YOU are responsible for the radio you sign out.

Radio Use

- To use the radio, turn the switch on the top of the radio so it clicks on.
- A number will show on a screen, or be read out loud, to indicate the channel you are on.
- To change channel, there is another dial at the top of the radio with numbered notches, these are your speech channels.
- You will be told which channel you need for the job/role you are in. There may be times you will be told to move to a different channel during the shift and you do this using this dial.
- On the side of the radio is a button. This is the button you press and hold when you talk. You must release this to hear any other calls. Do not press this when someone is talking as it will block all signals.
- Please ensure you are not knocking this button repeatedly as this will cause issues for all radio users and could stop vital lifesaving comms getting through to event control.
- If, when you press the button, it beeps at you, your battery needs to be replaced, please report to Event Control to get a new battery.
- If you have any questions about the use of the radios, do not hesitate to ask the team at the Event Control Tent between 8am and 9pm every day.

Details to NEVER Broadcast!

1. Phone Numbers
2. Movement of Cash
3. Description of Missing Children. (You will be given a private channel to switch to for this information to be passed)

If you become aware of a missing child/vulnerable person:

1. Contact EC using your radio (or someone else's radio), or by telephone.
2. ONLY when on a secure direct line to EC, provide EC with a detailed description of the child/person, their last known location and any other relevant information you have.
3. EC will radio all stewards and security using the Mickey (missing boy) and Minnie (missing girl) call signs, followed by the channel to be used to receive a description to enable a search to begin.
4. Discreetly check the immediate area and await further instructions.
5. When the child/person is found, the finder is to radio or telephone EC with the details.
6. EC will determine the process to reunite the individual with their parent/guardian.
7. EC will get back in contact with you to provide any instructions or ask you to stand down.

If a missing child or vulnerable person is not found within a maximum 20 minutes, EC will contact the police. If the person making the report of a missing child/person wishes to contact the police at any point, let them.

Safeguarding Procedure

For all staff and volunteers involved in delivering the Chippenham Folk Festival (CFF), this procedure, alongside the CFF Safeguarding Policy, is a must-read before you collect your wristband and commence your duties. A more detailed policy is available at chippfolk.co.uk.

Whether you're a paid worker or a volunteer, it's vital we're all aware of how to respond should any safeguarding concerns arise. While we sincerely hope such incidents are rare, we must be prepared to act appropriately if abuse, ill-treatment, or harm is disclosed or suspected.

These can take various forms: physical injury or neglect, sexual exploitation, emotional maltreatment impacting development, or failure to protect someone from danger. Should you be told of or have any worries about a child, participant, staff member, or volunteer, your first port of call is your venue manager, who will liaise with the Safeguarding Officer(s). If they're unavailable or you'd prefer an alternative, any member of the festival management team can be approached.

This doesn't prevent you from contacting social services or the police independently. In immediate danger, dial 999. Remember, take all concerns seriously, no matter how vague, but your role is to report, not investigate.

If someone confides in you, remain calm, listen attentively, and reassure them they've done the right thing. Ask only clarifying questions, avoid showing shock or making promises of secrecy, and be honest about the need to inform others.

Afterwards, make detailed, dated, and signed notes, keeping them secure. Crucially, do not inform any alleged abuser or discuss confidential details with anyone outside of the designated channels.

Fire Procedures

Evacuation of Venues

Venue managers will make you aware of the evacuation plan for each venue. Each venue may be different, be sure you know what applies to the venue you are in and stick to that plan.

Local Evacuation of a Park / Campsite or Outside Space.

In the event of an emergency such as crushing/fire/suspicious package/structural failure in a specific location, a local evacuation of the affected area will be initiated.

Once the incident has been dealt with and the site declared safe by the Fire and Rescue Service and/or the Police, the Festival Organiser will issue a 'stand down' call.

Full Evacuation

Owing to the size of the licensed site and the number of people accommodated within it, instituting a full evacuation would be complicated and hazardous. It would certainly only be considered as part of a major incident response.

It is noted that site-wide evacuation would inevitably cause significant problems within the locality which may affect the ability of emergency services to respond to the initiating incident.

In such circumstances however, Event Control shall be instructed to broadcast via the PA system the following announcement:

‘This is an urgent announcement’ – It has become necessary to evacuate the site. Please follow a steward who will be wearing a hi Viz jacket to the designated safe area as quickly and quietly as possible. Do not run or push, we shall advise you of further details as soon as possible.”

Should the PA system be unavailable then a loud hailer will be used.

FAQs

There is an FAQ page on the website at www.chippfolk.org.uk. Here you will also find a full interactive map of the town and venues that will provide you, or festival goers asking your advice, directions to venues around town. Also, on the website, you can find an interactive programme that can be filtered by genre, venue or time.

Shifts

You will receive your shifts from your venue manager. Please only request swaps if absolutely necessary. If you would like to pick up any additional shifts, during your time at the festival, to help out, please visit the Stewards Hub to let the steward managers know.

Starting and finishing your shift

At the start of each duty please ensure you report to your allocated venue manager on time to allow venue managers to ensure that working stewards are relieved in line with the shift rota. This will also allow for a handover with the Stewards before you and for any important information to be relayed.

Venue Books

Each Venue has a venue book allocated to it. This will provide you with the details you may need about the venue and wider festival.

Cash Floats

There will be no on the door purchase of event tickets this year so no cash floats will be available. Ticket requests should be directed to the box office.

Accessibility

Formoreinformation on accessibility at Chippenham Folk Festival , please see www.chippfolk.org.uk. For immediate enquiries please email your line manager.

Welfare

Ensure that you are never left alone at a venue during late-night events. If you find yourself in this situation please contact Event Control. It is not your responsibility to put yourself in harm's way when Stewarding an Event and we would never request that you do so. Contact the Venue Manager, Steward Managers or Security if you require assistance.

Lost Property

If unattended property is found, and is deemed not to be a threat the item should be logged on the lost and found sheet and as soon as possible moved to the Box Office for further logging and safe keeping until the owner is found.

Event Types

Each event at Chippenham Folk festival will be one of the following. For each one there is a different procedure. Please familiarise yourself with the type of events happening in the venues to which you are assigned.

- Season Tickets Only: Only those with appropriate wristbands or badges will be permitted to enter those events. Check everyone entering and challenge anyone without an appropriate wristband or ticket. Direct them to the Box Office or contact your Venue Manager for assistance
- Collections: Although the event is free, donations are encouraged to help and support the festival. You will have a collection tin to use on the door for these donations as people enter.
- OPEN (free event): This event is completely free to attend for everyone. Your main responsibility is to ensure that people are coming and going from the Venue in a safe manner and are enjoying themselves!
- Event Ticket: This event is open to anyone to attend as long as they have the appropriate wristbands or event specific ticket. Make sure you check everyone entering and challenge anyone without an appropriate wristband or ticket. You can direct them to the Box Office to sell them a ticket if they do not have one.

Comments, Complaints, Compliments and Feedback

We LOVE to hear good news stories, or get positive feedback, so please write down any compliments or comments received and report back to the Venue Manager/Steward's Manager at the end of your shift. However small, compliments really do make it all worthwhile!

Anyone approaching you with complaints, which cannot be resolved locally, should be directed to Event Control. Please note and report any feedback received to your manager as this supports the festival to respond and improve year on year.

A guide to dealing with difficult people and situations

- Never put yourself or others in danger. We have trained security who are available to all venues throughout the festival. Only use the following guidelines if it is safe to do so.
- Try to defuse the situation using tact, and where appropriate, humour.
- Listen to the complaint patiently and politely
- Admit if you do not know the answer and refer them to the Steward Managers/Venue Managers.
- Take a note of their details and issues. Make sure you ask them what resolution/response they would ideally like. This procedure quite often calms things down and is helpful to all concerned in solving the problem.
- If the person is aggressive, threatening, or violent in behaviour ask them politely to leave the premises or the Manager/Security will be called. If they refuse to do so, DO NOT confront them and inform security.
- Do not attempt to touch or move the person unless you are attacked, in which case look to protect yourself from harm first (by using blocks) and only use 'reasonable' force to help protect you and others only as a last resort.
- Extract yourself from confrontation as soon as possible and contact the Manager (if not already alerted), Security and, if the situation persists, the Police.
- Make a written note, as soon as possible, of any details of the person and the circumstances surrounding the incident. This will help Authorities in any inquiry. Note names, descriptions of face, clothes, hair, eyes, sequence of events plus any details of witnesses.
